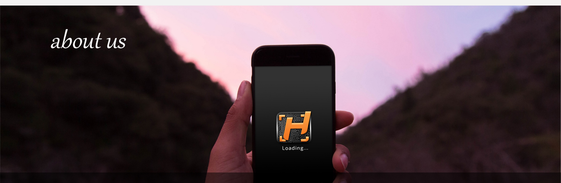
about us



We are the pioneers of Augmented Reality!

HuntAR Corp. is an AR studio in the heart of Tempe, Arizona.
We specialize in crafting custom, innovative and never-before-seen experiences through smartphone app development and cutting-edge technology.

We don't just make AR experiences, using our design expertise, we tailor experiences that will keep people talking about you and your product.

what we do

What is Augmented Reality?

Augmented Reality is a term describing content that blends the real world and virtual elements.
For example, Google Glass™ adds a heads-up display, or HUD, to your vision and the 1st & Ten® system displays the yellow first-down line on your TV in American football.

Design

We design experiences that matter to you and your product. Something with a "wow"-factor, but still useful, informative, and definitely memorable.

If we can't come up with an idea that gets you excited, we'll buy you lunch!

Innovation

Pushing the limits of technology, We create new and noteworthy experiences. We're passionate about technology and evolving it.

Augmented Reality is not a gimmick, it's the future.

Perfection

Our clients are always impressed with the way our AR experiences interact with their customers.

We're constantly taking it the the next level with tons of creativity and years of experience.

our expertise

Design

Design is the most important aspect of producing good content. Our expertise in design comes from our experience developing in the technology field. Even if you don't know exactly what you want, we will brainstorm with you and come up with something that will capture your brand and consumers interest.

User Experience

We create experiences that benefit both the users and the company. For example, pointing your phone at a product and getting more information about it is a simple but effective way of both helping the user and increasing interest in the product.

It doesn't stop there though. The possibilities are endless. We can take the user on a journey to another world, intrigue them with an interactive experience and/or show them the newest information about you and your amazing products.

AR Games

An Augmented Reality game is a great way to get consumers excited about your product. Our team is especially passionate about and experienced in making games. Our well crafted games will entertain your customers and positively impact your brand.
